

Dear Guest,

Welcome to our one cook kitchen.

We only have one Chef on and we make all our food fresh to order, this means you will get quality. But quality comes at a cost, the cost here, is time. If you look around and see lots of people, it will likely mean there will be a small wait for your food. Rest assured we will feed you as quickly as we can whilst keeping our food standards high. We think it's worth the wait.

Pop up to the bar to order once you have decided then you can sit back and enjoy the scenery.

“Food should be more than just energy; it should be an experience”

The Mighty Moa,

A now-extinct flightless bird endemic to New Zealand. The two largest species reached about 3.6 m (12 ft) in height with neck outstretched, and weighed about 230 kg (510 lb). It is estimated that, when Polynesians settled New Zealand circa 1280, the moa population was about 58,000.

They were the dominant herbivores in New Zealand's forest, shrubland, and subalpine ecosystems for thousands of years, and until the arrival of the Māori, were hunted only by Haast's eagle. Moa extinction occurred around 1300–1440 ±20 years, primarily due to overhunting by the Māori.
